Collaborative practice through learning and working together

CAIPE was established in 1987 as a membership organisation and UK-based charity, to promote health and wellbeing and to improve the health and social care of the public by advancing interprofessional education (IPE).

We are a community committed to collaborative working across health and social care and related services. CAIPE aims to promote and develop interprofessional education, research, learning and practice globally.

We support; students, academics, practitioners, researchers and people who use services by sharing information and enabling networking opportunities.

Extending CAIPE's definition we recognise interprofessional education as occasions when members or students of two or more professions learn with, from and about each other to improve collaboration and the quality of care and services.

At CAIPE we aim to.....

- promote and develop interprofessional education and learning through the active involvement of all our members
- collaborate with like-minded individuals and organisations nationally and globally in interprofessional education, research, learning and practice
- collaborate with national stakeholders, statutory, professional, regulatory bodies and international organisations in the promotion and development of IPE
- act as an independent think tank to improve collaborative practice and thereby the quality of service provision through professions learning and working together
- be a national and international authoritative voice on IPE in both academia and the workplace
